Dedication date: The monument was likely erected sometime in the 1920s to 1930s.

Controversies: According to the Caswell County Historical Association, "On February 2, 2009 a Mr. Eddie Davis working for a group called Inclusive North Carolina brought to the attention of the regular session of the Caswell County Board of Commissioners the issue of the segregation of white and black names on the memorial. He proposed that a new alphabetical listing be used given the times."

Landscape: This monument is located on the Caswell County Courthouse square.
