

Cavalry gear

Cavalry Gear

At a Civil War reenactment, a Union cavalry officer displays his gear. The equipment would be worn on the soldiers' backs as they fought and moved throughout the North and South. In the reenactors pack there is a bedroll (top right), canteen (turquoise circle on the bottom left), and rifle (without the bayonet, center).

For more on Union military equipment go to: <https://www.battlefields.org/learn/videos/equipment-civil-war>

<https://www.loc.gov/collections/civil-war/?fa=subject:equipment+%26+supp...>

Citation (Chicago Style):

Walbert, David. Calvary Gear. 2009. Digital Image.

Read the related article:

Small Arms in the Civil War

Usage Statement:

Public Domain

Public Domain is a copyright term that is often used when talking about copyright for creative works. Under U.S. copyright law, individual items that are in the public domain are items that are no longer protected by copyright law. This means that you do not need to request permission to re-use, re-publish or even change a copy of the item. Items enter the public domain under U.S. copyright law for a number of reasons: the original copyright may have expired; the item was created by the U.S. Federal Government or other governmental entity that views the things it creates as in the public domain; the work was never protected by copyright for some other reason related to how it was produced (for example, it was a speech that wasn't written down or recorded); or the work doesn't have enough originality to make it eligible for copyright protection.

Source URL: <https://www.ncpedia.org/media/cavalry-gear>