

Elizabeth Watson to James Watson Oct 29 1861 (page 2 of 3)

Elizabeth Watson to James Watson Oct 29 1861 (page 2 of 3)

This is page two of a letter from Elizabeth Watson to her husband, James Watson during the Civil War. See page 1, page 3 and envelope in which it was mailed.

your father's folks is all well and getting along very well allison is a darking for me and expects to work 10 or 12 days he has left home and expects to man before he goes back he is a talking of coming to you but I think it is all a talk getting is really a good crop of corn and is milking 2 cows that are increasing and doing well franklin was up a bout a week ago and that was all well and franklin has a fine saw miss McRaney is dead has bin dead some is weeks this has bin several deaths in our country and her dying words was pray for me the Calhoun cause dare of killing crane this is 3 company of volunteers made up in macon county one starts to day this Capt is Alfred Bell and allison amons will start before long we shall have quite a war weather then for this time of year and the next rain is ere hand of a fall we shall have had some frost but it hasn't come now including this is good crop made in hinchbury but it is too warm and wet to gether yet I hope there will be a change of weather for a little cooler weather would be the best and perhaps would be better for you my dear I wish I could see you I could have a heap of good fun look on next page

Public Domain is a copyright term that is often used when talking about copyright for creative works. Under U.S. copyright law, individual items that are in the public domain are items that are no longer protected by copyright law. This means that you do not need to request permission to re-use, re-publish or even change a copy of the item. Items enter the public domain under U.S. copyright law for a number of reasons: the original copyright may have expired; the item was created by the U.S. Federal Government or other governmental entity that views the things it creates as in the public domain; the work was never protected by copyright for some other reason related to how it was produced (for example, it was a speech that wasn't written down or recorded); or the work doesn't have enough originality to make it eligible for copyright protection.

Source URL:<https://www.ncpedia.org/media/elizabeth-watson-james-0>