

The way Germans did it / The way North Carolinians do it

The way Germans did it / The way North Carolinians do it

A pair of cartoons from the State Health Bulletin in October 1919 warns North Carolinians of how influenza is spread. The first, showing a man gunning down a soldier with a machine gun, is captioned "The way the Germans did it at Chateau-Thierry: During the recent war approximately 1000 men from North Carolina were killed in battle." The second, showing a man coughing into a crowd, is captioned "The way North Carolinians do it at home: During the epidemic last fall and winter 13,644 North Carolinians laid down their lives to a 'spit-borne' disease -- influenza!"

Citation (Chicago Style):

"The Health Bulletin, Volume 34, Issue 10, October 1919." UNC Libraries. Accessed May 18, 2022, <https://exhibits.lib.unc.edu/items/show/5559>.

Read the related article:

North Carolina and the "Blue Death": The Flu Epidemic of 1918

Usage Statement:

Public Domain

Public Domain is a copyright term that is often used when talking about copyright for creative works. Under U.S. copyright law, individual items that are in the public domain are items that are no longer protected by copyright law. This means that you do not need to request permission to re-use, re-publish or even change a copy of the item. Items enter the public domain under U.S. copyright law for a number of reasons: the original copyright may have expired; the item was created by the U.S. Federal Government or other governmental entity that views the things it creates as in the public domain; the work was never protected by copyright for some other reason related to how it was produced (for example, it was a speech that wasn't written down or recorded); or the work doesn't have enough originality to make it eligible for copyright protection.

---

Source URL:<https://www.ncpedia.org/media/way-germans-did-it-way-north>