^[3]climate. After purchasing 5,890 acres for approximately $1.00 per acre in the Sandhills area of Moore County ^[4], Tufts hired Frederick Law Olmsted ^[5], the distinguished landscape artist who designed Central Park in New York City and the grounds of Biltmore House ^[6], to draw up plans for a village named Pinehurst. Tufts put in cottages, a power plant, a post office, a department store, and the 250-room Carolina Hotel ^[7]. The huge structure, the largest frame hotel in the state, contained 49 suites with bath and a music room for 400 guests, which featured daily concerts by the hotel orchestra. The hotel opened on 1 Jan. 1901 and boasted every modern comfort and convenience, including electric lights, elevators, and telephones in each room. Tufts also built a trolley line from the Seaboard Railway station ^[8] in nearby Southern Pines to transport passengers to the Carolina Hotel.

In 1898 Tufts hired golf architect Donald J. Ross ^[9] to build a nine-hole golf course. By 1919 Ross had designed four courses, including the famed Pinehurst Number 2 course ^[10], and golf became the essential pastime for Pinehurst's tourists. The hotel also provided tennis courts, horseback riding, polo, croquet, and trap shooting. Sharpshooter Annie Oakley ^[11] ran the Pinehurst Gun Club for ten years. Guests of the Carolina Hotel included Warren G. Harding ^[12], J. Pierpont Morgan ^[13], Amelia Earhart ^[14], John D. Rockefeller Sr. ^[15], Theodore Roosevelt ^[16], John Philip Sousa ^[17], and Will Rogers ^[18]. From 1895 until 1920, James Tufts ran Pinehurst and the hotel as a sole proprietorship. In 1920 a charter for Pinehurst, Inc., was obtained from the state. By 1980 Pinehurst was a municipality, no longer a "company town."

In 1980 Malcolm McLean ^[19] of Diamondhead Corporation purchased Pinehurst, Inc. McLean built a new front entrance and thoroughly refurbished and repaired the hotel, now known as the Pinehurst Hotel ^[20]. Diamondhead defaulted on bank loans in 1982, and the Club Corporation of America ^[21] bought the hotel, golf courses, and clubhouse two years later. Restored to its former splendor, the Pinehurst Resort and Country Club ^[20] was in the early 2000s a AAA Four-Diamond Resort, with eight golf courses, a tennis complex, and other amenities.
