Cathey's Fort

Concrete monument near Cathey's Fort, McDowell County. Image from the North Carolina Digital Collections. ^[2] Cathey's Fort was built in McDowell County ^[3] by William Cathey in 1776. Cathey had purchased land near Turkey Cove at the foot of the mountains and there, where Cove Creek joined the North Fork of the Catawba River ^[4], he made his home. The fort was raised to protect Cathey's family and his neighbors from the Cherokee Indians ^[5]. Until Davidson's Fort was built soon afterward in what is now Old Fort, Cathey's Fort was the farthest western military outpost in North Carolina during the Revolutionary War ^[6]. Both forts played a part in the western campaigns of the war, including events leading up to the Battle of King's Mountain ^[7] on 7 Oct. 1780.
