Concessions and Agreement

The Concessions and Agreement ^[3] was a document issued by the Lords Proprietors ^[4] of Carolina on 7 Jan. 1665 to a group of Barbadian planters represented by Maj. William Yeamans ^[5]. Although the Barbadians intended to settle in the Cape Fear ^[6] region, the Concessions and Agreement applied to Carolina in its entirety. As such, it was Carolina's first written constitution. The Concessions and Agreement also provided for a method of land distribution and guaranteed settlers freedom of conscience in religion.

From the existing records, it appears that some aspects of the Concessions and Agreement were operative by mid-1665. The document remained in effect until early 1672, when it was superseded by the Fundamental Constitutions of Carolina ^[2].
