

absorb ^[1]

Type of Speech:

verb ^[2]

Definition:

a second possible outcome when a beam of light hits an object is absorption, in which some of the energy of the light beam is retained in the object, heating it up. The reflected beam is then less intense than the incoming beam. An object that absorbs most of the light hitting it will appear dark.

Source URL: <https://www.ncpedia.org/glossary/absorb>

Links

[1] <https://www.ncpedia.org/glossary/absorb> [2] <https://www.ncpedia.org/category/parts-speech/verb>