

pyrometric cone ^[1]

Type of Speech:

noun ^[2]

Definition:

a cone used to measure heat during the firing of ceramic materials in a kiln. The cones, often used in sets of three, are positioned in a kiln with the items to be fired and provide a visual indication of when the items have reached a required state of maturity, a combination of time and temperature.

Source URL: <https://www.ncpedia.org/glossary/pyrometric-cone>

Links

[1] <https://www.ncpedia.org/glossary/pyrometric-cone> [2] <https://www.ncpedia.org/category/parts-speech/noun>