

Edenton, North Carolina October 25, 1774

Edenton, North Carolina October 25, 1774

This image is an excerpt from the Postscript to The Virginia Gazette from November 3, 1774 showing the a statement of political resolves submitted by fifty-one women from Edenton, North Carolina. The names of the women from Edenton appear below their statement. In their statement, the women expressed support for the actions and resolutions made by North Carolina's First Provincial Congress which met in New Bern from August 25-27, 1774. These political statements and resolutions expressed support for the belief that the American colonists should not be taxed by the British Parliament without their consent and without having their own elected representatives in Parliament. The action of the women from Edenton was a bold and unique demonstration of patriotism. The Virginia Gazette was the local newspaper published in Williamsburg, Virginia.

Citation (Chicago Style):

"Edenton, North Carolina, October 25, 1774." The Virginia Gazette, Postscript (Williamsburg, VA), Nov. 3, 1774. <http://research.history.org/DigitalLibrary/va-gazettes/VGSinglePage.cfm?issueIDNo=74.PD.56> (accessed April 15, 2018)

Available at:

<http://research.history.org/DigitalLibrary/va-gazettes/VGSinglePage.cfm?...>

Read the related article: The "Edenton Tea Party"

Usage Statement:

Public Domain

Public Domain is a copyright term that is often used when talking about copyright for creative works. Under U.S. copyright law, individual items that are in the public domain are items that are no longer protected by copyright law. This means that you do not need to request permission to re-use, re-publish or even change a copy of the item. Items enter the public domain under U.S. copyright law for a number of reasons: the original copyright may have expired; the item was created by the U.S. Federal Government or other governmental entity that views the things it creates as in the public domain; the work was never protected by copyright for some other reason related to how it was produced (for example, it was a speech that wasn't written down or recorded); or the work doesn't have enough originality to make it eligible for copyright protection.

---

Source URL: <https://www.ncpedia.org/media/image/edenton-north-carolina>