

Shivaree <sup>[1]</sup>

Shivaree

by Marilyn Wright, 2006

Shivaree, or chivaree, was a traditional Mountain <sup>[2]</sup> folk custom staged during the first night that a bride and groom, following the honeymoon, moved into their new residence (even if it happened to be with relatives in their old residence). The attendant loud noises and merrymaking ensured that no one in the neighborhood could sleep through the excitement. The house was surrounded by friends and neighbors, some carrying lighted pine knots. As the parade of well-wishers encircled the house, the men fired guns into the air, the women and children banged on pots or clanged cowbells, and a few creative participants beat the cadence with their own version of a string band. This chaos continued until the couple appeared at the door and invited everyone inside. Simple shivarees required the bride to offer treats of candy or apples, while the groom produced cigars for the men. The women participating in the event brought gifts to help the new housewife set up her household.

An old-fashioned shivaree was not a native North Carolina custom but likely made its way into the Mountain region with the early German <sup>[3]</sup> or Scotch-Irish settlers <sup>[4]</sup>. The custom of shivaree was common in New England and the Midwest. Each region imprinted a special twist on the tradition, but there are features to a shivaree shared by all groups.

The merits of a shivaree were numerous. Everyone in the community participated-young and old, male and female. The newlyweds certainly met their neighbors in a friendly if raucous manner and were, in turn, properly initiated into the community. Another important feature of the custom was the collective good cheer and feeling of community everyone shared. Finally, and perhaps most importantly, shivarees were an old-fashioned diversion that was just plain fun.

References:

J. B. Hicklin, "Mountain Chivaree," The State (14 Apr. 1941).

Hellen K. Moore and Ferne Shelton, eds., Pioneer Superstitions: Old-Timey Signs and Sayings (1968).

Vernon Sechriest, "The Bellin' of Old Man Carter," The State (January 1983).

Additional Resources:

Graham, Patricia and Humphrey, Verna. "An Appalachian Shivaree." Hillbilly Tales from the Smoky Mountains and Other Homespun Remedies, Proverbs, and Poetry. Montgomery, Ala.:E-Booktime LLC. 2011.
<http://www.appalachianhistory.net/2011/07/it-was-like-a-bachelor-party-that-had-gone-bad.html> <sup>[5]</sup>

Palmer, Bryan D. "Discordant Music: Charivaris and Whitecapping in Nineteenth-Century North America." p. 5-62. Labour / Le Travail 3. 1978. <http://www.jstor.org/stable/25139907> <sup>[6]</sup>

Subjects:

Culture <sup>[7]</sup>

Folklore and Legends <sup>[8]</sup>

Authors:

Wright, Marilyn <sup>[9]</sup>

From:

Encyclopedia of North Carolina, University of North Carolina Press. <sup>[10]</sup>

1 January 2006 | Wright, Marilyn

---

Source URL: <https://www.ncpedia.org/shivaree>

Links

<sup>[1]</sup> <https://www.ncpedia.org/shivaree> <sup>[2]</sup> <https://www.ncpedia.org/geography/region/mountains/ncatlasrevisited> <sup>[3]</sup> <https://www.ncpedia.org/german-settlers> <sup>[4]</sup> <https://www.ncpedia.org/scottish-settlers> <sup>[5]</sup> <http://www.appalachianhistory.net/2011/07/it-was-like-a-bachelor-party-that-had-gone-bad.html> <sup>[6]</sup> <http://www.jstor.org/stable/25139907> <sup>[7]</sup> <https://www.ncpedia.org/category/subjects/culture> <sup>[8]</sup> <https://www.ncpedia.org/category/subjects/folklore> <sup>[9]</sup> <https://www.ncpedia.org/category/authors/wright-marilyn> <sup>[10]</sup> <https://www.ncpedia.org/category/entry-source/encyclopedia->